

Chuck | sales - "roadwarrior"

Chuck is admittedly a workaholic. He is on the road at least 5 days a week and his laptop is both his personal and professional office... a lifeline to all things information and financial. So obviously, it would be a pain if it was lost. But it would be catastrophic if it were stolen and fell into the wrong hands. He uses SecuriKey to completely lock out anyone without the password and the key.

Steve keeps a spare key at home and at the office... and since he registered his software he can have a replacement key shipped to him overnight with just a phone call. His client files, proposals, product information... plus his online banking and expense records are all safe and secure.

key Issues for Chuck:

Totally locks up my data

The key is small and looks just like a thumb drive

Logging on has become second nature

"If someone were to steal this thing it would be a very expensive boat anchor"
